

Acknowledgements

We would like to thank Giselle Hillman from the Department for Transport who provided detailed information on personal travel behaviour in the South East. Brian Marker from the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister and David Highley from the British Geological Survey made sure that the results from the Aggregates Mineral Survey AM2001 reached us as soon as possible. The Industry Council for Packaging and the Environment (INCPEN) provided data beyond that which was freely available.

Invaluable information on waste data was provided by David Payne (South East Regional Assembly), Brian Jones (Environment Agency), Peter Day (Hampshire County Council) and Dr Chris Coggins (Waste Management and Technology Centre [WAMTECH]). A special thanks to David for reviewing the waste chapter in the report.

The Centre for Environmental Strategy, University of Surrey (Philip Sinclair) helped us with household expenditure data. Andrew Sage from ONS provided unpublished information on aviation for the South East. Also from ONS, Mike Taylor provided valuable information concerning regional tourism statistics. Finally, Michelle Cornwell from DEFRA provided information on domestic waste growth.

The following individuals and organisations were kind enough to offer support, information and time to help us on the project:

Simon Ashwell – South East England Development Agency

Alan Bell – Environment Agency

Tub Collins – Furniture Now!

Sue Girard – The Paper Federation of Great Britain Ltd.

Rocky Harris – Office of National Statistics

Richard Lewney – Cambridge Econometrics

Ann McGarry – Centre for Alternative Technology

Erica Parisi – CSIL Milano (Furniture Industry Research Institute)

Bernie Thomas – Advisory Committee on Consumer Products and the Environment

David Whitefoot – Carpet Foundation

Rachel Winther – Department of Trade and Industry
